This thesis had a long gestation. It emerged out of several months of discussions with PA Hudson, my supervisor and mentor, who has been the driving force and inspiration throughout my postgraduate studies. His influence is felt on every page of the thesis, which was written only because he was able to see through its many trying phases, losing neither his optimism nor his good humour. I gratefully acknowledge the assistance of the staff of the South African Parliament who provided the requisite parliamentary papers for the research. Assistant Librarian SJ van Rensburg-led team at the Inter Library Loans arm of the Wits University Library constantly procured materials on legislative studies and parliamentary democracy and thus made an aspect of a seemingly arduous, though invigorating, task a lot easier when the entire Library of the University of the Witwatersrand has yet to house books and certain crucial journals on legislative studies and parliamentary democracy. The funding provided by the University of the Witwatersrand and the Mellon Foundation towards the writing of this thesis is deeply appreciated, however, the views and conclusions held herein are the author’s.

The camaraderie of Kenneth Hlela, Thembani Mtshali, Benjamin Kalu, Solomon Mulira, Nobuhle Mlaba, Peter Nwafor, Ndee Ehirim and Litshani Tshikororo only tended to belie the tiredness and boredom and oft-deep feeling of sadness encountered en route a prolonged, very lonely journey. And, because I lacked the capability, during the course of this odyssey, of explaining to certain of my significant others about my obsessions and single-minded focus on the thesis while completely abandoning critical issues of daily life, I apologise unconditionally, unreservedly.

Portions of this work have been accepted as articles for journal publication, viz Democracy and the Committee System of the South African Parliament with Special Reference to the Standing Committee on Public Accounts (SCOPA), in Politeia, 2007;