REFERENCES

2. Dr. L.S. Benner, Dr. T. Suzuki, Dr. K. Meguro and S. Tanaka, Precious metals science and technology, 1991, p 7 – 11.

17. V.W.A. Duke, Internal report no. 86; “ Chromium , A mineral commodity review”, Department of minerals and energy affairs, p 1 – 18.

42. L.P. Sundquist, M.Sc Dissertation; “Analysis of platinum, palladium and rhodium at trace concentrations in lead using the time resolved spark emission technique called saft”, 2000.

55. J.G.S. Gupta, Determination of trace and ultra trace amounts of noble metals in geological and related materials by graphite-furnace atomic-absorption spectroscopy after separation by ion-exchange or coprecipitation with tellurium, Talanta, 1989, vol.6, no. 6, pp. 651-656.

57. C. Ballhaus, C.G. Ryan, Platinum-group elements in the Merensky reef. PGE in solid solution in base metal sulphides and the down-temperature

70. S. Wilbur, Agilent technologies Inc., A

72. A. Sanz-Medel, Analytical atomic spectrometry going into the next millennium: photons or ion, atoms or molecules?, The Analyst highlight, 2000, Volume 125, pp. 34 – 43.

82. P.W Overbeek, J.P Loo and R.C Dunne “the development of a concentration procedure for the platinum group metals and chromite from the UG2 Reef of the Bushveld Complex” National Institute for Metallurgy, Review No. 1, Randburg 1985, p3-15

