References

Benoff, D. (March 2003). Hazards in the hanger; they can be chemical, mechanical, environmental or procedural, but find them before they find you. Business and Commercial Aviation. New York. 92, p60-66.

Burchell, B. (2000). Human factors; still trying to catch on despite ample evidence supporting the value of human factors training and awareness, the aviation industry has been slow to embrace the concept. Overhaul and Maintenance. Washington. iv. Issue 10, 21-30.

http://www.piercelaw.edu/risk/vol4/fall/field.htm

Human factors in aircraft maintenance and inspection. (24 January 2002). Civil Aviation Authority.

Zeitlin, L.R. (1994) Failure to follow safety instructions; faulty communication or risky decisions? Human Factors. 36, 172-181.