Fig. 2.6: Combined aerial photographs (Flight numbers 1224-1231) covering the northern part of the collar of the Vredefort Dome (for flight details, see Appendix No. 1b). The ridges of typically quartzite units of the Witwatersrand Supergroup are clearly visible. Furthermore, displacements along large-scale faults of the strata as well as large-scale monoclinic folding are also discernible.