

https://dspace.org/

Applied Improvisation in Africa: Facilitating Embodiment Work in Online Rooms

Apotieri-Abdulai, Oluwadamilola; Janse Van Vuuren, Petro

2020-07

Arts Research Africa, The Wits School of Arts, University of the Witwatersrand

https://hdl.handle.net/10539/29209

An important aspect of Applied Improvisation is using and perceiving the body and those of others in the room. Can adaptations be made to enable embodied work online without jeopardising impact? In this workshop, we present different improvisation methods that can be used in online settings.

Downloaded from a DSpace repository. https://dspace.org/

DOI: https://doi.org/10.17605/OSF.IO/EPV5M

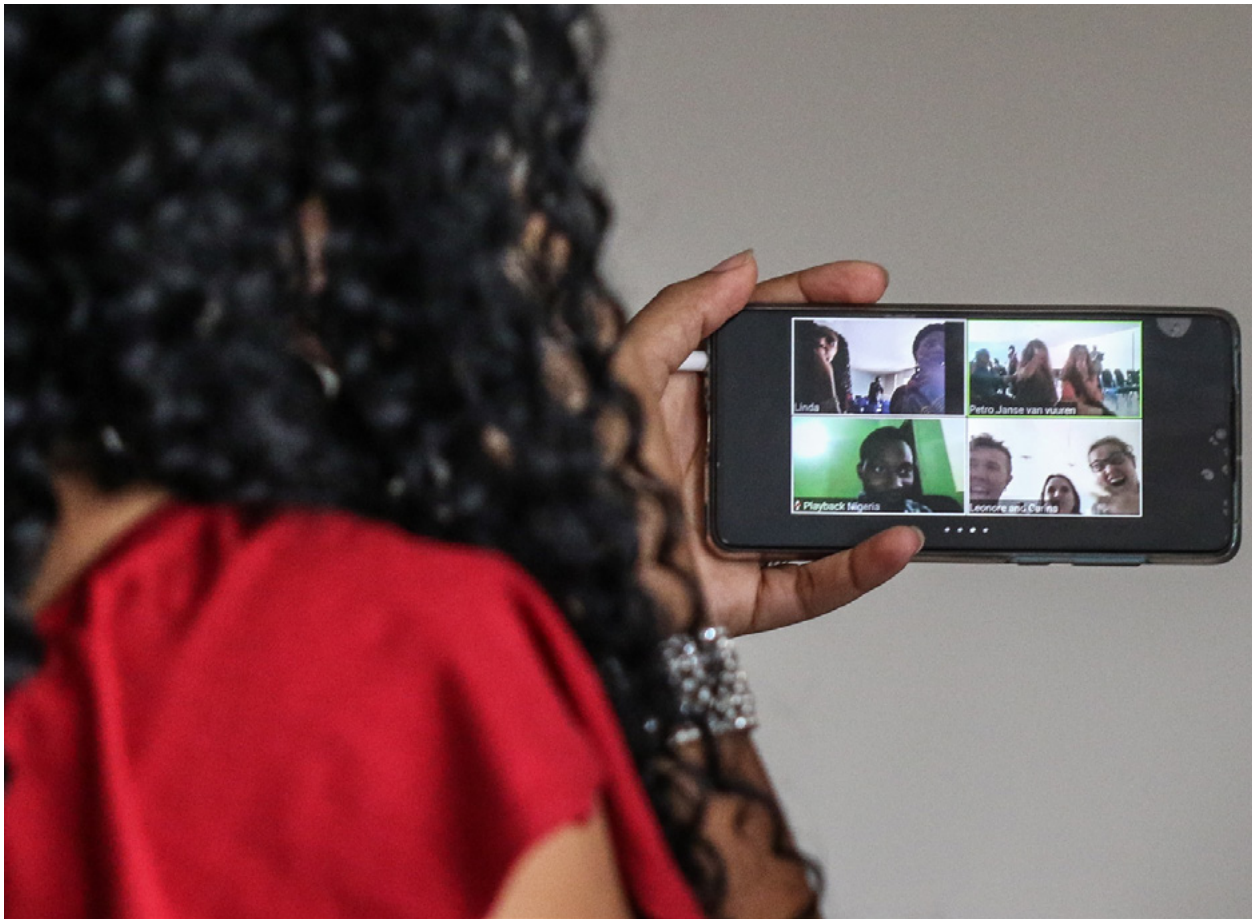

WORKSHOP

APPLIED IMPROVISATION IN AFRICA: FACILITATING EMBODIMENT WORK IN ONLINE ROOMS

OLUWADAMILOLA APOTIERI-ABDULAI
AND PETRO JANSE VAN VUUREN

This article is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International (CC BY 4.0) licence:
https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0

An important aspect of Applied Improvisation is using and perceiving the body and those of others in the room. Can adaptations be made to enable embodied work online without jeopardising impact? In this workshop, we present different improvisation methods that can be used in online settings.

Linda
Petro Janse van vuuren
Playback Nigeria

Oluwadamilola is an Applied Improvisational practitioner from Nigeria and serves on the board of the Applied Improvisation Global Network; damilola_a@yahoo.com

Petro is a lecturer and the Head of the Drama for Life department in the Wits School of Arts; petro.jansevanvuuren@wits.ac.za