

Contents

DECLARATION	i
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.....	ii
ABSTRACT.....	iii
 CHAPTER 1: Introduction	 1
1.1 Introduction.....	1
1.2 Research Aims.....	2
1.3 Research Questions.....	2
1.4 Rationale	2
1.5 Definition of key terms	6
1.6 Structure of the research report	7
 CHAPTER 2: Literature Review	 8
2.1 Introduction	8
2.2. A critique of some of the theories utilised to understand sexual behaviour	8
2.3 Social Representations Theory.....	10
2.4 Perceived Invulnerability: I am not at risk, ‘others’ are	12
2.5 Developing an ‘Identity’: Who I am in a context of social representations	15
2.6 Youth: Young people at risk of HIV infection?	16
2.7 Gender: Differential HIV risk?	18
2.8 Race	24
2.9 Socio-economic status	25
2.10 Substance and alcohol use.....	27
 CHAPTER 3: Research Design and Methodology.....	 30
3.1 Research design.....	30
3.2 Research procedure.....	30
3.2.1 Participants and sampling method	30
3.2.2 Procedure	32

3.2.3 Data Collection Methods	33
3.3 Data Analysis	35
3.4 Ethical considerations	35
3.5 Researcher reflexivity and the researcher's experience	36
 CHAPTER 4: Findings and Discussion	 40
4.1. Introduction	40
4.2. Risky behaviour: A central factor in the social representation of a 'risky identity'	41
4.3 Personal attributes as elements of risk	61
4.3.1 Age: Are the youth at risk?	62
4.3.2 Exploring the social representations of gender in the HIV epidemic	73
4.3.3 HIV risk: The social representations and discourses regarding race	101
4.4 Risky behaviours in risky environments	111
4.5 Perceptions of personal risk?	116
 CHAPTER 5: Conclusions	 123
5.1 Summary of findings	123
5.2 Strengths and limitations of the research	127
5.3 Recommendations for future research	128
5.4 Conclusion	128
 REFERENCES	 129
 APPENDICES	 137