

ABSTRACT

This project seeks to reframe mental illness as a dis-ease versus a disease within biomedical discourse. It speaks to the ways in which mental illness is; pathologised, racialised, classed and gendered specifically in relation to “womxn”.

KEYWORDS

Mental illness, gender, pathology, biomedicine, capitalism, anxiety, depression

