

https://dspace.org/

Conceptualising quality in health care as perceived and experienced by households : a case study of privatising Zambia Consolidated Copper Mines, Luanshya Division.

Tembo, Angela Kasambo

2010-03-12T08:58:27Z
http://hdl.handle.net/10539/7658

Downloaded from a DSpace repository. https://dspace.org/

CONCEPTUALISING QUALITY IN HEALTH CARE AS PERCEIVED AND EXPERIENCED BY HOUSEHOLDS: A CASE STUDY OF PRIVATISING ZAMBIA CONSOLIDATED COPPER MINES, LUANSHYA DIVISION

BY

ANGELA KASAMBO TEMBO

A research report submitted in partial fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of

Masters of Art in Development Studies

University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg

May 2009

CONCEPTUALISING QUALITY IN HEALTH CARE AS PERCEIVED AND EXPERIENCED BY HOUSEHOLDS: A CASE STUDY OF PRIVATISING ZAMBIA CONSOLIDATED COPPER MINES, LUANSHYA DIVISION

BY

ANGELA KASAMBO TEMBO

SUPERVISOR: DR KNOWLEDGE RAJOHANE MATSHEDISO

Department of Sociology

University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg