

Dedication

To my Generous Sponsors, the Institute of Catholic Education,

To my Beloved Family,

I gratefully dedicate this Work

Acknowledgements

I wish to express my heartfelt gratitude to my supervisor, Professor L Landau for his tireless guidance and support throughout this work. I thank you very much Prof for the time and energy you spent reading my drafts and for the ever useful feedback and advice.

I am thankful to Professor Charles Simkins and Miss Veronique Gindrey for their invaluable technical input and encouragements.

Last, but not least, I am very grateful to JB Barley and Mr Vedaste Nzayabino for the time and energy they sacrificed to edit this work.

Declaration

I declare that this work is the fruit of my own effort. It is a research report submitted for the Degree of Masters in Demography and Population Studies in the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences at the University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg. It has not been submitted for any other degree, diploma or examination in any other institution.

Abstract

It is no longer contested that migrant transnational linkages are becoming a replacement social organization where nation-states' institutions and regulatory capacities are increasingly failing to guarantee decent livelihoods or, at least peace, to their citizens, and where potential destination countries' policies are restrictive of immigrants. This essay explores the patterns and correlates of the contemporary migration decision-making and its timing, focusing on the role of transnational networks in that process. It is a quantitative study that uses a comprehensive dataset that Forced Migration Studies Programme collected in 2006 on the South African, Mozambican, Congolese and Somali immigrants residing in the Inner-city of Johannesburg. Based on personal experience of 594 international immigrants among those, the study challenges the well established argument in international migration theories that position economic opportunities as the primary explanatory factor underlying the contemporary migration decisions. While the study recognize the importance of economic factors, the study reveals that the entrenched history of migration between countries of origin and destinations and the resultant web of transnational ties explain better than economic factors the contemporary African migration decisions and their timing. With its relatively new approach to analysis of the patterns and correlates of migration decision timing, the study manages to position the importance of transnational ties in migration decisions and to show how they command the swiftness of migration decision-making processes.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

CHAPTER I: INTRODUCTION.....	1
1.1 Research Background.....	1
1.2 Research Questions.....	4
CHAPTER II: THE LITERATURE REVIEW.....	9
2.1 Introduction.....	9
2.2 Migration Theories.....	10
2.3 Previous Studies.....	11
2.3.1 Contemporary Migration Transnationalism.....	11
2.3.2 The Correlates of Migration Decision Timing.....	13
2.4 Theoretical and Conceptual Framework.....	16
CHAPTER III: THE DATA AND RESEARCH METHODOLOGY.....	20
3.1 Study Design and Dataset.....	20
3.1.1 Population Covered and Sample Size.....	20
3.1.2 Sample Design and Selection.....	20
3.1.3 Questionnaire Design.....	21
3.2 Variables: Definition and Measurement.....	22
3.3 Data Analysis Methods.....	22
3.4 Limitations.....	23
3.4.1 Theoretical Limitations.....	24
3.4.2 Methodological Limitations.....	24
CHAPTER IV: FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION.....	26
4.1 Introduction.....	26
4.2 Descriptive Statistics.....	27
4.2.1 Sample characteristics.....	27
4.2.2 Other Relevant descriptive Statistics.....	30
4.2.2.1 Reason for Migration.....	30
4.2.2.2 Transnational ties: types and distribution.....	31
4.2.2.3 Descriptive statistics of other Independent Factors.....	33
4.2.2.4 Migration Intentional Interval distribution.....	34
4.3 Descriptive Bivariate Statistics.....	36
4.3.1 Time by Country of Origin.....	37

4.3.2	Time by Reason for Migration.....	39
4.3.3	Reason for Migration by country of origin.....	40
4.3.4	Time by Respondents' age at the time of migration intention.....	41
4.3.5	Time by Respondent upbringing settlement.....	42
4.3.6	Time by whether other destinations were considered.....	43
4.3.7	Time by whether the decision was taken alone or in a group.....	44
4.3.8	Time by transnational ties.....	45
4.3.9	Transnational ties by country of origin.....	46
4.4	Multivariate Regression Analysis.....	48
4.4.1	Bivariate Regression.....	48
4.4.2	Multiple Regression.....	52
	CHAPTER V: DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION.....	65
5.1	Conclusion.....	65
5.2	Research Implications.....	68
	References.....	69

List of Tables

Table 1: Demographic Characteristics of the Respondents.....	27
Table 2: Various Reasons for Migration.....	31
Table3: Knew someone in JHB before migrating.....	32
Table4: Degree of networks in the destination before migrating.....	32
Table5: Thought on Alternative Destinations.....	33
Table6: Whether Respondents Travelled Alone or in Group.....	34
Table7: Migration Intentional Intervals: Distribution.....	34
Table8: Intentional Interval by Country.....	37
Table9: Time by Respondents' Age at the Time of Intention to Migrate.....	41
Table10: Time by Respondents' Upbringing Settlement.....	43
Table11: Time by Whether Other Destinations were Considered.....	44
Table12: Time by decision was taken as a household or alone.....	45
Table13: Time by Network Degrees.....	46
Table14: Bivariate Regression: Model that Includes Networks.....	48
Table15: Bivariate Regression: Model that Excluded Networks.....	51
Table16: Multiple Regression: general Model with Networks.....	53
Table17: Multiple Regression: Model without Networks for Economic Migrants only.....	56
Table18: Multiple Regression: Model for Mozambican Economic Migrants only.....	58
Table19: Multiple Regression: Model for Forced Migrants Only.....	59
Table20: Multiple Regression: General Model for those without Networks.....	63

List of Figures

Figure 1: Migration Intentional Interval per Country	35
Figure 2: Migration Intentional Interval by Country.....	38
Figure 3: Migration Intentional Interval by Reason for Migration.....	39
Figure 4: Reason for Migration by Country.....	40
Figure 5: Transnational ties by Country of origin.....	47
Figure 6: Intentional Interval by Age at Intention (Graph).....	61
Figure 7: Average Delay by Age at the time of intention to migrate.....	62