6	I think this would depend on the facilities available and the costs to run/maintain the equipment. (e.g. indoor/outdoor; equipment maintenance/upgrades; electronic equipment) R20 per hour for kids R100 full day (8 hours - max) Most of the time, little kids don't spend more than 1 - 2 hours before they are tired and restless or their parents have to leave	8/22/2016 2:45 PM
7	Current similar facilities charge between R250-R350 for a 2-3 hour session. I personally think this is too high, however, people do pay happily.	8/10/2016 2:18 PM

Q6 Do you think there are any other play activities/programmes or items that can be added at a play facility that will improve the experience?

Answered: 10 Skipped: 0

1	Less tech games and more outdoor activities such as soccer, basketball etc.	10/1/2016 2:13 PM
2	water activities	9/30/2016 6:48 PM
3	Valcro climbing wall	9/28/2016 6:29 PM

5	Trampoline	8/22/2016 9:21 PM
6	Sports Coaching - Have a 20 - 30 minute session every few hours like Soccer Stars or Netball Divas. Kids can "enrol" themselves and get the basics on ball skills and advance to more advanced classes at a later stage Have competitions running once a month on the skills learnt to give the older kids some "goals" and demo to parents (Structured learning)	8/22/2016 2:45 PM
7	Would need to know exactly what is being provided. I think a strong connection to the outside world and the natural environment is vitally important. I find children usually like the tactile activities at a young age and then a more technological activity at an older age. The worst thing in most play type facilities is having a restrictive place or claustrophobic space. Provide enough manoeuvring space for running screaming children and parents. Remember parents generally go to these places for a break. Also, one ticket for the whole day with multiple passes in and out.	8/10/2016 2:18 PM
8	Petting Zoos	8/10/2016 9:33 AM
9	Yes - more outdoor riding areas for bicycle/roller blades	8/9/2016 9:49 PM
10	Puzzles, zipline and lego	8/9/2016 6:15 PM
