

Acknowledgements

I acknowledge God, who is the living energy in me.

I am enormously grateful to everyone who participated in this research, especially my interviewees, who took the time to meet up with me, open up and share their stories. I hope that I have reflected their life histories and experiences fairly.

Sincere appreciation and thanks to my supervisor Dr Julia Hornberger. Not only did she have faith in my ability to complete this project, but was also patient with me. Guiding me in ways that always seemed to make sense to what I was trying to do, particularly when I wasn't sure what that was, and, of course, for challenging me and helping me grow intellectually. This research would not have been possible without her input, encouragement, and commitment to my work.

I would also like to extend my gratitude to the South African Research Chair in 'Local Histories and Present Realities' for affording me the opportunity to further my studies through their bursary. I have benefited a lot from your stimulating and interesting seminars, as well as the support of your staff, especially my supervisor Dr Tshepo Moloji.

Thanks also to all my family members for their support.

Musa Risimati. Your inputs, criticism and suggestions have been put to good use. Thank you.
