

OPEN AND DISTANCE LEARNING STAFF DEVELOPMENT:
an impact evaluation of a southern African collaboration programme.

By

EVELYN PULANE NONYONGO

Research Report submitted in fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy to the School of Education,
University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg.

SUPERVISOR: PROF RAY BASSON
2007

ABSTRACT

This study is a qualitative evaluation of the impact of the Certificate for Distance Education Practitioners, a collaborative staff development programme for open and distance learning practitioners in the five southern African countries of Botswana, Lesotho, Namibia, South Africa and Swaziland. It aims to inform the stakeholders of this programme on its impact and to add to the limited research on open and distance learning in Africa. It is the first southern African systematic evaluation of the impact of a staff development collaboration programme delivered through open and distance learning methods. The study evaluates the impact of the programme on the 1997 - 2000 learners and on the organisations where these learners worked. Parlett and Hamilton's (1975) illuminative evaluation methods were combined with McAnany's (1975) five criteria impact evaluation model to produce an expanded and innovative design of programme impact evaluation. Postal questionnaires and interviews provided biographical data and direct views of the programme's participants. Progressive focusing illuminated the key issues emerging from the programme's delivery and McAnany's (1975) evaluation criteria were used to analyse and interpret the programme's impact. One of the key findings from this study is that the conceptions informing the delivery of the Certificate for Distance Education Practitioners are based on notions of openness, flexibility, learner-centredness and collaboration and that the programme's implementation endeavoured, in varying degrees, to match these notions. The second finding is that the participants regarded the programme highly as a sound introduction to open and distance learning approaches and practices and felt it contributed to the application of learner-centred ideas in their organisations. However, the programme's low enrolment numbers and progressively declining throughput rates contradicted this high regard and did not match the providers' original projections. Lack of resources impacted negatively on participants' application of open and distance learning approaches while organisations' implementation of new policies and mergers created job insecurity for some participants. As in Perraton and Lentell (2004) other key issues emerging from this study include the absence of enabling staff development policies, lack of recognition, currency and/or reward after completion of the programme, limited marketing, level and national focus of the programme, and management and administration issues. These findings suggest that it is possible to deliver a regional collaboration staff development programme through open and distance methods but that the issues raised in this study need to be addressed to make such programmes sustainable, effective and financially viable.

Key words: open and distance learning, staff development, collaboration, policy and implementation, illuminative evaluation, McAnany's evaluation criteria: effort, performance, adequacy, efficiency, process.

DECLARATION

I hereby declare that Open and distance learning staff development: an impact evaluation of a Southern African collaboration programme is my own unaided work and that all the sources I have used or quoted from have been acknowledged by way of a complete list of reference. This thesis has not been submitted for a degree at any other university.

EVELYN PULANE NONYONGO

DATE: 11 October 2007

PLACE: JOHANNESBURG

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to express my gratitude and deep appreciation to my supervisor, Professor Ray Basson for his guidance, understanding and general support during the course of this study

My deepest thanks go to my family: husband, Arthur and daughters, Zukiswa and Zoleka for their support, love, patience and encouragement during the happy and difficult times of my studies. My thanks also go to all the other members of my extended family who have contributed in various ways to my success.

Special thanks go to DEASA, SACHED-DETU and UNISA-ICE for access to a variety of documents; to CDEP stakeholders: learners, tutors and organisations that have participated in this study.

Thank you also to: Prof Tony Dodds who provided critical comment on the various drafts; Mrs Thandi Ngenengebule, Ms Matlawa Maile and Ms Khomotso Mabusela who assisted with some of the illustrations in this report; Ms Antionette Welthagen and Ms Rose Mashishi who assisted with the layout, illustrations and word-processing and Mary-Emma Kuhn who assisted with the transcriptions of some of the audio tapes and analysis of the questionnaire data.

Finally, a special dedication and tribute to my late parents, Mr Klaas Mantweng Meno and Mrs Elizabeth Gabaikangwe Meno and my late mother-in-law, Mrs Mabel Mayoyo Nonyongo.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

DETAILS	PAGE NUMBERS
Abstract	i
Declaration	ii
Acknowledgements	iii
Table of contents	iv
List of figures	xi
List of abbreviations and acronyms	xiii
CHAPTER 1
GENERAL INTRODUCTION AND STATEMENT OF THE PROBLEM
1.1 Introduction	1
1.2 Aim	1
1.3 Rationale	3
1.4 Statement of the problem	6
1.5 Research questions	7
1.6 Organisation of chapters	11
CHAPTER 2
REVIEW OF THE LITERATURE
2.1 Introduction	14
2.2 ODL related matters	14
2.2.1 Conceptions	14
2.2.2 Policy	22
2.3 Collaboration	23

2.4 Staff development	25
2.5 Evaluation of impact	31
2.6 Conclusion	33

CHAPTER 3

RESEARCH DESIGN DATA COLLECTION AND ANALYSIS

3.1 Introduction	35
3.2 Research approach	35
3.3 Research sample	40
3.4 Data collection	43
3.4.1 Familiarisation	44
3.4.2 Postal questionnaires	46
3.4.3 Non-participant observation	50
3.4.4 Semi-structured in-depth interviews	55
3.5 Validity of data	57
3.6 Data analysis and interpretation	59
3.6.1 Familiarisation	59
3.6.2 Questionnaires	60
3.6.3 Non-participant observation	63
3.6.4 Semi-structured in-depth interviews	64
3.6.5 Interpretation of impact	66
3.7 Conclusion	67

CHAPTER 4

ODL POLICY AND IMPLEMENTATION

4.1 Introduction	69
4.2 Global and Africa region perspectives	71
4.2.1 Policy goals and framework of action	72
4.2.2 Implementation in the Africa region	75

4.2.2.1 The three regional seminars/workshops: Arusha, Dar-es-Salaam and Nyanga	76
4.2.2.2 Post-Nyanga Activities	81
4.2.3 Analysis	82
4.3 Sub-regional level: SADC	88
4.3.1 Distance Education Association of Southern Africa (DEASA)	88
4.3.2 SADC Initiatives	90
4.3.2.1 Policy goals and framework of action	92
4.3.2.2 Implementation	96
4.3.2.3 Analysis	100
4.4 National level: Five DEASA countries	104
4.4.1 Policy goals and framework of action	105
4.4.1.1 Botswana	105
4.4.1.2 Lesotho	110
4.4.1.3 Namibia	113
4.4.1.4 South Africa	117
4.4.1.5 Swaziland	121
4.4.2 Analysis	123
4.5 Conclusion	125

CHAPTER 5

CDEP INSTRUCTIONAL SYSTEM

5.1 Introduction	127
5.2 Origin	128
5.3 Aims	130
5.4 Target audience	131
5.5 Entry requirements	133
5.6 Duration	134
5.7 Course content	134
5.7.1 Adult education and learning	134

5.7.2 Introduction to distance education	135
5.7.3 Distance education materials	136
5.7.4 Introduction to learner support	136
5.7.5 Management and administration at the local level	137
5.8 Delivery methods	139
5.9 Assessment	140
5.10 Collaboration in presenting the CDEP	140
5.11 Policy environment	143
5.12 Conclusion	147

CHAPTER 6

HIGH REGARD AND PARTICIPANT CONTRIBUTIONS

6.1 Introduction	149
6.2 High regard for the CDEP	151
6.2.1 Questionnaires	154
6.2.2 Interviews	159
6.3 What are CDEP learners' contributions in organisations?	161
6.3.1 Lesotho learners group interview, 20 September 2004	162
6.3.2 Evidence from tutor-marked assignments	166
6.3.3 Corroboration of learners' views by Angeline and Moiloa, directors from Namibia and Lesotho	172
6.3.4 The views of Mr Raoleka, a South African CDEO tutor and ex-CDEP learner	174
6.3.5 Interview with Pitso, a South African learner	175
6.4 Conclusion	183

CHAPTER 7

PROBLEMS AND ISSUES

7.1 Introduction	185
7.2 Problems experienced in application of CDEP ideas/approaches	186
7.2.1 Lack of resources	186
7.2.2 Job insecurity and impact of national policy decisions	187
7.3 Issues surrounding delivery	190
7.3.1 Enrolment and throughput rates	191
7.3.2 Organisational issues	197
7.3.2.1 User organisations issues	197
a) Enabling organisational ODL staff development policy	198
b) Recognition, currency and reward	202
c) Limited resources	204
7.3.2.2 Providing organisations	207
a) Marketing	207
b) Level and national focus	210
c) Management, administration and related issues	211
7.4 Paradoxical situations	215
7.5 Conclusion	217

CHAPTER 8

EFFECTIVENESS

8.1 Introduction	219
8.2 Effort	220
8.2.1 Quantitative aspects	220
8.2.1.1 Survival and / or institutionalisation	220
8.2.1.2 Diffusion	222
8.2.1.3 Number of people served	223
8.2.2 Quality related aspects	225

8.2.2.1 Ability to plan and clearly state objectives	225
8.2.2.2 Quality of software	227
8.2.2.3 Management and administration	228
8.2.2.4 Financing	231
8.3 Performance	233
8.3.1 Successful completion of studies and examination performance	234
8.3.2 Attrition	236
8.4 Adequacy	241
8.5 Efficiency	245
8.6 Process	248
8.6.1 Marketing	250
8.6.2 Addressing management and administration problems	252
8.6.3 Revision of content	252
8.7 Conclusion	253

CHAPTER 9

GENERAL CONCLUSION

9.1 Introduction	255
9.2 Findings	255
9.2.1 What conceptions of ODL inform the CDEP and its practices in distance education in southern Africa, and what differences are commonly perceived to exist between the two?	256
9.2.1.1 CDEP ODL conceptions and practices	256
9.2.1.2 Southern Africa conceptions and practices	259
9.2.2. What contributions are CDEP participants making in their institutions and which of these contributions are as a result of participation in the CDEP?	262
9.2.3. In what way/s are these contributions informed by learner-centred notions of ODL?	264
9.2.4 What problems are CDEP participants encountering in their application of CDEP ideas/practices/approaches in their job situations and how are DEASA member institutions assisting or hindering participants' application attempts?	264

9.2.5 What issues surrounding delivery, for example materials, teaching and learning, learners' responsibility in the learning/teaching process and collaboration in delivery need to be addressed, for feedback purposes?	266
9.2.6 CDEP effectiveness	270
9.3 Contributions made by this study	275
9.3.1 Learning from the evaluation	275
9.3.2 Extension of ideas on staff development	277
9.3.3 Innovative evaluation design	279
REFERENCES	280
INTERNET REFERENCES	299
APPENDICES	300
1: Organisations questionnaire	300
2: Tutor questionnaire	304
3: Student questionnaire	307
4: Covering Letter	310
5: CDEP Interview schedule	312
6: Summary of field notes	313
7: First level questionnaire analysis	315

LIST OF FIGURES

FIGURE NO	DETAILS	PAGES
3.1	Conceptual Framework	39
3.2	List of CDEP participating organisations	41
3.3	Questionnaire returns	49
3.4	Observation sample	53
3.5	Questionnaire returns: Profile of organisations representatives	61
3.6	Reasons for joining CDEP	62
3.7	Namibian learners interview, 5 April 2002	65
3.8	Data sources and key issues	68
4.1	MCLB principles and objectives	79
6.1	DEASA organisations participation figures 1997 – 2000	153
6.2	Reasons for participation in the CDEP	155
6.3	How reasons for participating in the CDEP have been met	156
6.4	Participants' views on CDEP materials	158
6.5	Angeline's view on CDEP relevance	160
6.6	Group interview with CDEP Lesotho learners	162
6.7	Evidence from tutor-marked assignments	167
6.8	Views from two senior managers: Angeline and Moiloa	172
6.9	The views of Raoleka, a South African Tutor and ex-CDEP learner	174
6.10	Interview with Pitso, a South African learner	176
7.1	Candice's views on managements message to staff on early retirements	188
7.2	Issues surrounding delivery and emergent paradoxes	191
7.3	Annual continuous retention rates	193
7.4	Cohort continuous retention rates	195
7.5	Annual ideal retention rates	197
7.6	Angeline's view on CDEP and staff development	198
7.7	Angeline's organisation's staff development policy	200

7.8	Yoliswa, a Namibian learner's view on need for follow-up support	201
7.9	CDEP learners comments about recognition and reward	202
7.10	CDEP learners' comments on further studies	203
7.11	Angeline on strategies for continued sponsorship	205
7.12	Kipling on links between CDEP funding, recognition and reward	206
7.13	Comments on CDEP marketing	208
8.1	Attrition stages	238
8.2	CDEP learners' occupation categories	242
8.3	CDEP and McAnany's Process Criterion	249
8.4	Kipling's view on CDEP recognition and reward	251

LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS AND ACRONYMS

ABEP	Adult Basic Education Project
ABET	Adult Basic Education and Training
ADEA	Association for the Development of Education in Africa
BOCODOL	Botswana College of Distance and Open Learning
CCE	Centre for Continuing Education
CD	Compact Disc
CDE	Centre of Distance Education
CDL	Centre for Distance Learning
CDEP	Certificate for Distance Education Practitioners
CEMSA	Centre for Education Media of Southern Africa
CES	Centre for External Studies
CESAG	Centre Africain d'Etudes Supérieures en Gestion, African Centre for Higher Management Studies
CIFFAD	Consortium International Francophone de Formation à Distance, A Consortium of Distance Education in French-Speaking Countries.
COL	Commonwealth of Learning
COLL	Centre for Open and Lifelong Learning
DAE	Department of Adult Education
DE	Distance Education
DEASA	Distance Education Association of Southern Africa
DEMS	Department of Extra-Mural Services

DETU	Distance Education Training Unit
DNFE	Department of Non-Formal Education
DoE	Department of Education
DSS	Department of Student Support
DUSSPRO	Distance University Student Support Programme
EDC	Emlaladini Development Centre
EFA	Education for All
GCE OL	General Certificate of Education Ordinary Level
HRD	Human Resource Development
HIGSCE	Higher International General Secondary Certificate of Education
ICE	Institute for Continuing Education
ICDE	International Council of Distance Education
ICT	Information and Communications Technology
IDE	Institute of Distance Education
IDCS	Institute of Distance and Continuing Education
IEC	International Extension College
IEMS	Institute of Extra-Mural Services
IGNOU	Indira Gandhi National Open University
ILS	Institute of Labour Studies
INADES	Institut Africain pour le Developpement Economique et Social. A private Institute based in Cote-d'Ivoire.
LDTC	Lesotho Distance Teaching Centre
MCLB	Multi-Channel Learning Base

MOET	Ministry of Education
MOH	Ministry of Health
NADEOSA	National Association of Distance Education Organisations of South Africa
NAMCOL	Namibia College of Open Learning
NAPRODOLSA	Network for Advanced Professional Development of Open Learning in Southern Africa
NCHE	National Council on Higher Education
NEHAWU	National Education and Health Workers Union
NGO	Non Governmental Organisation
NOLNet	Namibia Open Learning Network
NP	Namibia Polytechnic
NPHE	National Plan for Higher Education
NUL	National University of Lesotho
ODL	Open and Distance Learning
OLSET	Open Learning Systems Education Trust
OUT	Open University of Tanzania
PET	Protocol on Education and Training
PGDDE	Post Graduate Diploma in Distance Education
SACHED	South African Committee for Higher Education Trust
SACTE	South African College of Teacher Education
SADC	Southern African Development Community
SADCC	Southern African Development Coordinating Committee
SADC-CDE	Southern African Development Community Centre for Distance Education

SAIDE	South African Institute of Distance Education
SAQA	South African Qualifications Authority
SARDEC	Southern African Regional Distance Education Centre
SCU	Sector Coordinating Unit
SAEU	South African Extension Unit
TCDE	Technical Committee on Distance Education
TECHNISA	Technical College of South Africa
TSA	Technikon Southern Africa
UB	University of Botswana
UB-CCE	University of Botswana Centre for Continuing Education
UK OU	United Kingdom Open University
UNDP	United Nations Development Programme
UNESCO	United Nations Education, Scientific and Cultural Organisation
UNICEF	United Nations Children Education Fund
UNISA	University of South Africa
UNISWA	University of Swaziland
UNZA	University of Zambia
WCEFA	World Conference on Education for All
WDEFA	World Declaration on Education for All
ZOU	Zimbabwe Open University